

Above—The front campus and "the old front row" at Brown University, Providence, R. I. Left to right: Hope College (1823), Manning Hall (1824) and University Hall (1770).

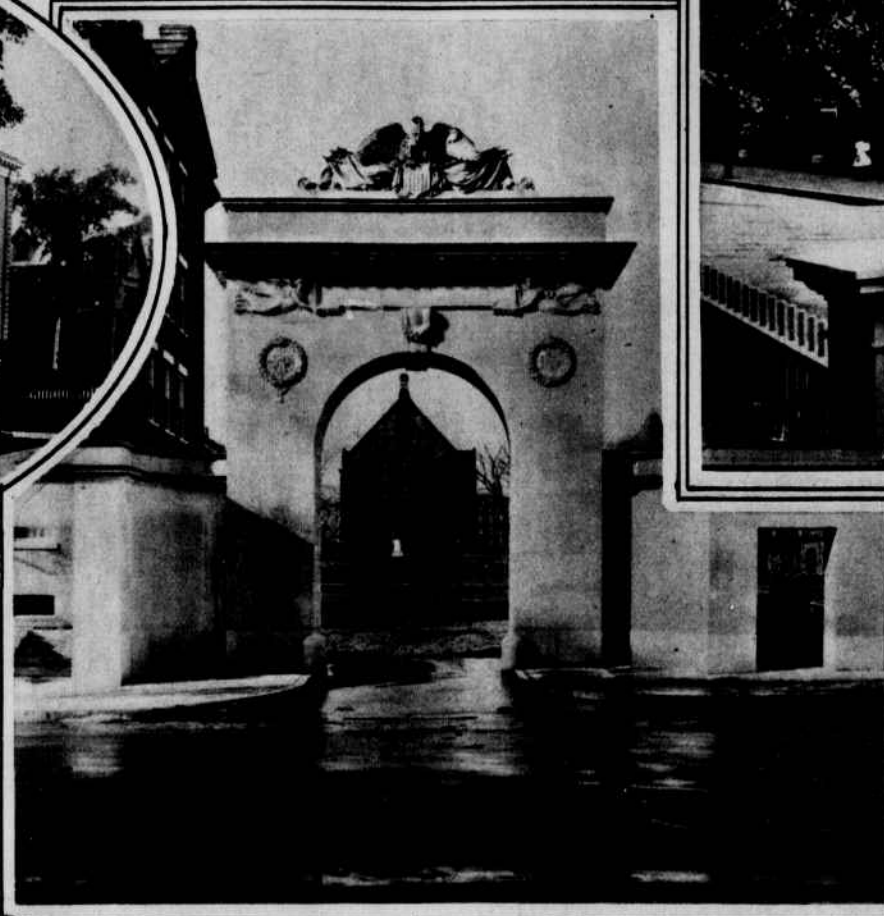

At right—Rockefeller Hall, middle campus, popularly known as the Brown Union. It is the democratic student club.

Rear campus at Brown, looking west. At left, Sayles Hall, the chapel building; at the right, the Lyman Gymnasium.

Miss Mary R. Stitt, daughter of the Surgeon-General of the navy and Mrs. Edward R. Stitt, who will be presented to Washington society on December 14.
(c) Clineinst.

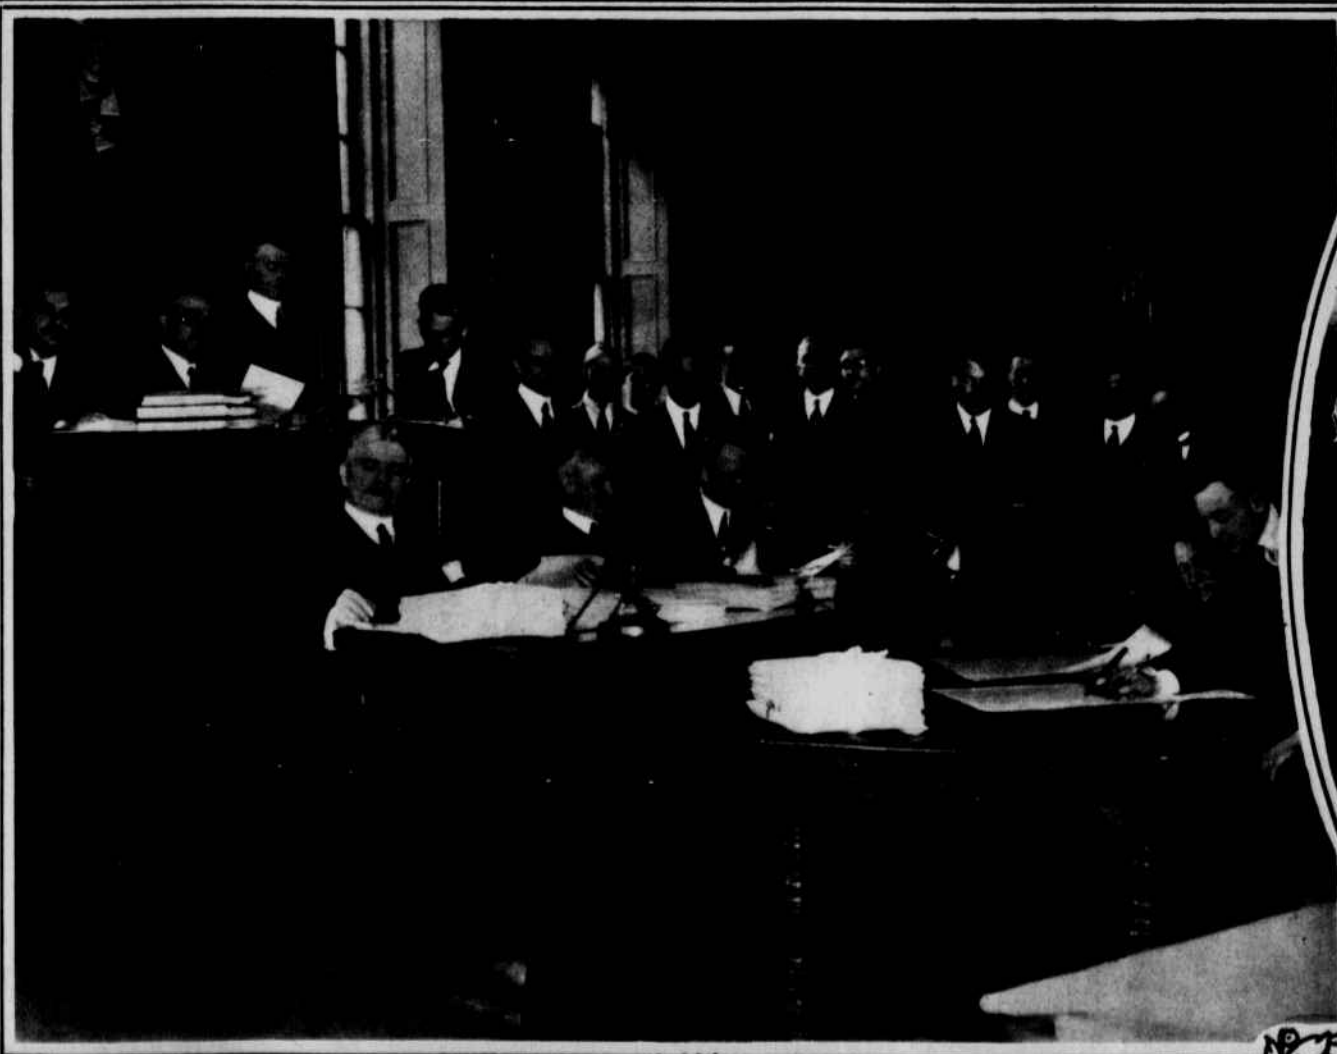

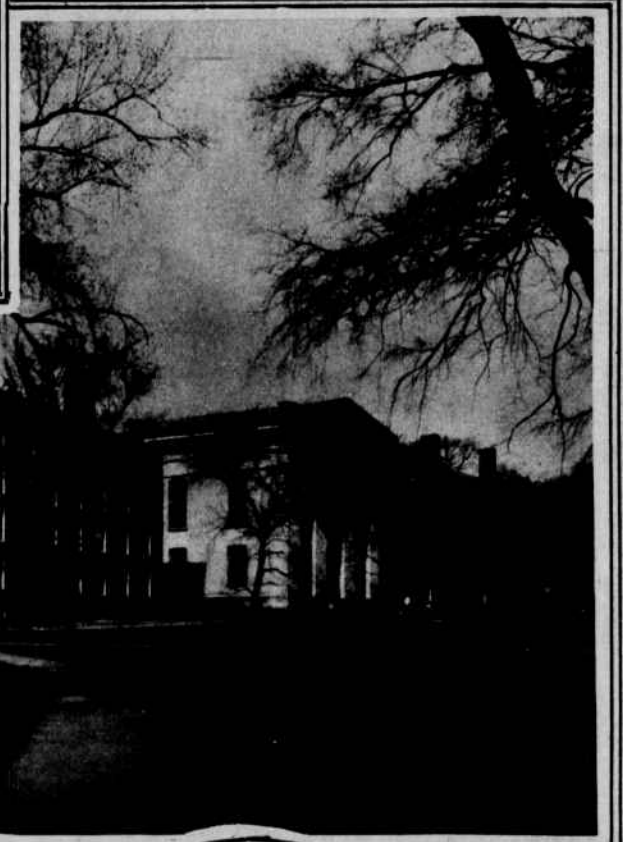

Above—Soldiers Gate, dedicated to the forty-three Brown men who gave their lives in the great war.

At right—University Hall at Brown, which was built in 1770 and which served in the Revolutionary War as a barracks for American soldiers.

Photos by John Hess.

The Carrie Tower, presented to Brown by the late Paul Banjotti of Turin, in memory of his wife, who was Carolina Matilda Brown. The tower contains a great clock and bell.

At the top desk, left to right: Alderman Louis Zeltner, Alderman John F. McCourt and John Hines. At lower desk, left to right: Alderman Bernard Donnelly, Alderman Stephen J. Roberts and Alderman John J. Sullivan. At the table are expert accountants tabulating the canvass. Grouped in the background are the watchers. Board of Aldermen canvassing votes of the recent election.
Underwood & Underwood.

This photograph shows Baroness Maria Antoinetta Avanzo, the first Italian woman champion motor car driver. She won the ladies' cup at Brescia, Alfa Romeo.